A study abroad consortium of six partner community colleges will develop two sustainable facultyled study abroad programs to the UK and Belize. The programs will be designed to expand study abroad access among minority and rural community college students in occupational fields, to allow them to develop global career skills that they can use to support their future careers.

Northern Arizona University NAU will expand on a new partnership with the Malawi University of Science and Technology (MUST) to develop a faculty-led program. This will fill a gap at NAU by providing a study abroad program in Africa while addressing development gaps in Malawi through the creation of scalable "community innovation hubs."

The IDEAS (Increase and Diversify Education Abroad for U.S. Students) Program, formerly known as the Capacity Building Program of the U.S. Department of State with funding provided by the U.S. Government and supported in its implementation by World Learning.

Georgia State University GSU seeks to address the underrepresentation of African American Males (AAM) in study abroad through a systematic outreach effort utilizing existing structures, partnerships, and networks that support AAM students. The development of AAM faculty and peer advisors as role models will assist in demonstrating to AAM students that study abroad is feasible and will prepare them for careers in a global marketplace.
